RING

During his summer holidays Simon worked in a call centre for Abbey National and as a cashier at a local NatWest branch. He would also help at his parent's pub working in the kitchen and behind the bar.

Summer Job

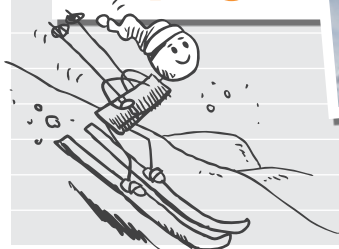

After completing his training contract (and now a fully qualified solicitor) he stayed at Rickerbys for one year. One of the cases he particularly remembers involved the buy-out of an aerospace company for £1.75 million where he advised all of the parties involved, including the bank. Simon considers his commercial awareness one of his key employability skills.

2008-2009

Simon plays football regularly and enjoys skiing holidays with friends.

Keeping Fit

Simon studied law at university in Leicester and loved it so much he stayed there to undertake his Legal Practice Course and Masters in Business Law.

1999-2005

Once he'd completed his academic studies he joined Rickerbys LLP as a paralegal, eventually securing a training contract where he focused his attention on corporate and commercial law.

2006-2008

Having met his wife at university Simon married in 2010.

2010 Wedding

Simon joined the legal team at Nationwide Building Society in 2009. He works as a solicitor in the business team advising different internal departments on a broad range of legal issues. He has helped to negotiate the contracts for the 'Little Britain' TV characters, who appeared in a few Nationwide adverts, and has helped to train and inform other departments about their legal obligations.
