

Desirable Doors

From catalogues or online websites, collect as many different pictures or photographs of doors as you can.

Tip: You will find it easiest if you use hardware or home building catalogues.

- Sort your pictures into styles and decide which ones you would want most if you were buying a new door for the front of your house.
- Next do the same for door fittings, such as numbers, letterboxes, knockers, handles and knobs.
- Organise your cuttings to design your ideal door. Once you are happy with your door, paste the cuttings onto a large sheet of paper.
- When you have chosen your ideal door with all its fittings pasted together, write a full description of it. Make sure it includes what it's made of, its size, its colouring, what materials the fittings are and what the advantages of this would be to your home.
- How much does your ideal door cost? Have you thought about draught proofing and the cost of having someone put your door in?
- Now collect all your cuttings and writing together in a folder. Put the picture of your ideal door on the final page, with labels showing materials used, any special features and prices.
